

Publication and Distribution

The Revista de Lingüística y Lenguas Aplicadas will be published once a year in March. The publication will be in a digital format so as to facilitate access to the articles while increasing their degree of impact. The journal will be made available on the website of the Departamento de Lingüística Aplicada of the Universidad Politécnica de Valencia (<http://www.upv.es/dla/revista/>). Additionally, 250 printed (hard) copies of the annual journal will be distributed among the contributing authors and mailed to the libraries of the Faculties of Philology/Departments of Philology in Spain. Printed copies will also be given to the journal's international board of Consultant Editors (listed below).

Both national and international associations related to the fields of research which are the focus of the journal (i.e. AESLA, AILA, AEDEAN, etc.) will be asked to collaborate with publicising and distributing the journal through their mailing lists. In addition, the journal is included in the lists of journals indexed in the area of applied linguistics with the aim of guaranteeing its distribution at an international level.
