Laura Márquez-Ramos es licenciada en Administración y Dirección de Empresas por la Universitat Jaume I (UJI) (Premio Extraordinario, 2002) y doctora en Economía (Premio Extraordinario, 2007). Ha trabajado en la Universidad de Varna (Bulgaria) con un contrato Marie Curie de Early Stage Researcher de la Comisión Europea (mayo 2007- febrero 2008) y en la UJI desde 2008 hasta su incorporación en el Institute for International Trade (IIT) de la Universidad de Adelaida (Australia). En la Universidad de Adelaida trabajó como Senior Lecturer desde septiembre de 2016 hasta finales de 2021, en el IIT, en la Escuela de Economía, y en la Escuela de Negocios, donde supervisó estudiantes e impartió docencia (en Doctorado, Máster y MBA) y colaboró en varios proyectos de investigación, incluido un proyecto del Australian Research Council, la agencia nacional de investigación de Australia (referencia del proyecto: DP190103524, con una financiación de 72.000 euros, y una duración de tres años). Desde marzo de 2023 trabaja en la UJI como Catedrática de Universidad, donde imparte clases de Grado en Métodos Cuantitativos y Econometría, y donde también tutoriza estudiantes en sus prácticas externas y supervisa trabajos de fin de grado. En total tiene más de 20 años de experiencia en docencia universitaria.

Su investigación se centra en el campo de la economía internacional y diferentes aspectos de las relaciones comerciales mundiales, incluyendo temas como el comercio internacional de las empresas y de las regiones, el medio ambiente y el transporte. Se especializa en el análisis de datos en investigaciones relevantes para la política. Posee un amplio conocimiento y experiencia en análisis y modelización de datos utilizando grandes bases de datos y big data. Tiene experiencia en la gestión de temas de confidencialidad de datos, conocimiento de legislación y capacitación en diferentes países. Por ejemplo, estableció con éxito el centro de datos administrativos de Indonesia en la Universidad de Adelaida, que incluye datos de empresas y transacciones (exportaciones e importaciones) con información del puerto de destino y origen. Además, cooperó con la Oficina de Estadística de la República de Eslovenia y la Oficina de Estadística de Australia para trabajar con sus datos administrativos confidenciales.

Su investigación se ha publicado en revistas internacionales de prestigio como el Journal of Environmental Economics and Management, la revista líder mundial en el campo de economía medioambiental, y revistas top como Transportation Research Part A: Policy and Practice y Papers in Regional Science, entre otras. Tiene dos sexenios de investigación reconocidos por la CNEI, y 41 de sus publicaciones aparecen en la Web of Science Core Collection. Tiene un índice h de 13 (según la Web of Science).

Ha obtenido reconocimiento internacional por su investigación. En el ranking IDEAS/RePEc su investigación ocupa el puesto 464 de 2571, situándose en el top 19% de España. Según Google Scholar las citas a sus investigaciones, en febrero de 2023, ascienden a 1778. En 2010 obtuvo el premio al mejor trabajo en las jornadas del Center for Research in the Economies of the Mediterranean (CREMED) y su artículo publicado en Applied Economic Analysis (2019) recibió el Premio Literati 2020 (artículo altamente recomendado). Recibió el premio a jóvenes economistas de la UJI por la calidad de su investigación en 2012 y, en 2016 y en 2017, recibió el premio del Decano Ejecutivo de la Facultad de Profesiones de la Universidad de Adelaida por la excelencia de su investigación.

Ha realizado estancias de investigación de media y larga duración en centros de investigación internacionales de reconocido prestigio en su área, para las que ha obtenido financiación de manera competitiva (Universidad de Bayreuth, Alemania; Universidad Nacional de Córdoba, Argentina; Universidad de Harvard; Estados Unidos y Universidad de Oslo, Noruega). Es miembro de tribunales de tesis con regularidad (de Grado, Máster y/o Doctorado) y ejerce habitualmente de evaluadora de artículos en revistas científicas (90 veces según la Web of Science).

Ha participado en un amplio número de proyectos científicos internacionales (de Alemania, Argentina, Australia, Bulgaria, Egipto, España, Marruecos, Polonia y Túnez), incluyendo varios proyectos del Plan Nacional de Ciencia de tres países (Australia, España y Polonia). Tiene experiencia en la dirección de proyectos financiados de manera competitiva y en escribir informes dirigidos al gobierno y a las empresas. Por ejemplo, preparó dos informes para la Asociación de Gobiernos Locales de Australia Meridional sobre la resiliencia de las empresas de Australia Meridional y su respuesta ante el COVID-19; escribió para el Instituto Australiano de Asuntos Internacionales sobre el Acuerdo de Libre Comercio entre Australia y la Unión Europea y publicó tres artículos de investigación en revistas científicas de Bancos Centrales y Ministerios (en la Revista Española de Estudios Agrosociales y Pesqueros del Ministerio de Agricultura, Pesca y Alimentación de España—en 2017; en la Revista de Economía del Banco Central del Uruguay—en 2013 y en Información Comercial Española, ICE: Revista de economía, del Ministerio de Industria, Comercio y Turismo de España—en 2007).

Su red de co-autores es internacional y muy amplia, incluyendo colaboraciones con investigadores senior y algunos de sus estudiantes de Máster y de Doctorado, lo que demuestra su capacidad de trabajo en equipo. A su vez, tiene nueve artículos en publicaciones de impacto de autoría única, lo que demuestra su autonomía. Ha presentado su investigación en congresos nacionales e internacionales relevantes en su área desde 2004, en más de 135 ocasiones. Por ejemplo, presentó su artículo “International environmental agreements and imperfect enforcement: Evidence from CITES” en la conferencia anual de verano de la Association of Environmental and Resource Economists y en la European Winter Meeting of the Econometric Society en 2021. También tiene experiencia en comités de organización y científicos de congresos, conferencias y workshops. Por ejemplo, en la Universidad de Adelaide, organizó el tercer instituto de verano para estudiantes de Doctorado (marzo de 2019), taller que se consolidó con éxito como el taller para estudiantes de Doctorado en comercio internacional en Australasia. Además, fue mentora en el Programa de Women in Economics (WEN) para estudiantes de Grado en Australia. El propósito clave de este programa es resaltar las diversas oportunidades disponibles a las estudiantes y graduadas en economía en Australia.

La transferencia de resultados científicos de su investigación se ha dado, por ejemplo, en conversaciones con la Organización Mundial del Comercio; en su participación en el grupo de trabajo del Go8 (Group of Eight) “Research Led Economic Recovery for Australia post COVID-19”(2020); en el Grupo de los Países del G20 (a través de su participación en el T20 en Buenos Aires en 2018); y de su participación en el primer taller de adquisiciones legales de la Convención sobre el Comercio Internacional de Especies Amenazadas de Fauna y Flora Silvestres (CITES), organizado por la Secretaría de la CITES. La participación en este taller le permitió dar feedback para la elaboración del documento final que tiene como objetivo establecer un marco que regule el comercio legal de especies amenazadas (Bruselas, 2018).

A continuación, se presenta un currículum más detallado (en inglés).
